Commander Smith, after reciting the fact that Lee Camp has already given $150 to the Home, made a further subscription on behalf of the camp of $100.

The History Report.

The History Report.

After a number of resolutions looking the betterment of the Grand Camp had to the betterment of the Grand Camp had been offered and referred, Grand Commander Christian presented to the veterans Senator John W. Daniel, chairman of the History Committee, who read his report. It was heard with the most careful attention by the veterans, who punctuated it with cheers and laughter. It began with a well-deserved tribute to Judge Geo. L. Christian, the Grand Commander, whose work in behalf of the camp has been so effective.

After a brief tribute to the Southern, "truer Americans by reason of their unyielding maintenance of whatever the past has left then worthy to be preserved." Senator Daniel tells in burning words of the hardships undergone by Virginia in the years of civil strife.

A Tragedy.

A Tragedy.

The destruction of the Confederate War Department with its records he denominates as a tragedy. On this point he says:

says:
"Happily for Virginia and most honorably for the United States, the Congress and the War Department have worthly knught to secthe and preserve all the ught to secure and preserve all the prements of our Confederate history, as well as that of the Union soldiers.

*** One hundred and thirty volumes of the reports, correspondence and returns of numbers and organizations of troops have been published by the United States at a cost of at least three faillions of dollars. The Fifty-seventh Congress provided by law for the full publication of all the muster rolls of all the armies of the United States and the Confederate States allke. So colossal a task has never before been undertaken by a great nation.

** The United States provides the means and offers to defend and print our Confederate history and calls upon us to defend ourselves by helping to do it. We should spring to our feet to do it with a right royal rebel yell, and should not let the yell be for ourselves alone; we should put an upper story on it and add three times three and a tiger for Uncle Sam in his present amiable mood toward his old-time, so-called rebel friends.

The Military Records.

Continuing, Senator Daniel calls attention to the action of the Virginia Legislature in providing for a secretary of amitary Records, which position is filled by Major Robert W. Hunter. Paying a tribute to the worth of this gallant official, the report calls attention to the importance of assisting him in his work. In connection with the institution of the new department. Senator Daniel suggests that thanks be returned to the Legislature of Virginia, to Colonel Tipton D. Jennings, of Lynchburg, and Hon. R. S. B. Smith, of Clarke county.

Omitting a number of statistics, which will be printed with the reports. Senator Daniel's report, as presented by him, was more in the nature of the deeply interesting address than a formal report. In its course he paid special tributes to many gallant veterans, living and dead. Among the brave "parsons" that he called by name, were Bishop John C. Gwanbery, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the chaplain-general of the Grand Camp, Rev. J. Wm. Jones. There were tears in the eyes of Dr. Jones, who occupied a seat on the stage when Major Daniel conclude was adopted without the formality of a motion, and on suggestion of the Grand Commander, who headed the list, a considerable sum of money was con-tributed to print and distribute the report, A vote of thanks was tendered Emator

General Walker's Address.

Daniel.

General Walker's Address.

Grand Commander Christian (ien introduced General C. Irvine Walker, of South Carolina, who spoke on "The Women of the South"
General Walker spoke heartily and eloquently, endorsing and earnestly urging the speedy erection of the memorial to the glorious women of the Confederacy. He first explained his relations and deep interest in the movement, as the speeds representative of the sons and chairman of the United Confederate Veterans' Committee on Co-operation. He felt that he was thus enabled to unite the influence of these two great federations. He believed that an approxing sentiment existed in every Southern heart, and it only needed agitation to arouse it to activity. General Walker is in charge of this agitation and promises to bend every energy of his nature to awake the sentiment and win success.

He said that it is proposed to erect to the women of the Confederacy a menorial, grander than any which has yet been raised to Confederacy a menorial, grander than any which has vethern than the completion of this tribute has been delayed, fore now the prosperity which has blessed the South, will enable us to pay these herole women a tribute more commensurate with their worth. "Our fair women have dotted our Southland with countless memorials to Confederate valor," said he. "Let its make that to these women, the crowning glory to all Confederate tributes. General Walker made a most earnest appeal to the veterans, to the sons and to the younger daughters, to bend every energy, to labor unceashigly, to work until success crowns the effort being made to honor the mothers of the Confederacy.

To the younger "Daughters" he clearly showed that it was their duty to honor richly deserved the grandest memo the hands of man could mould or genius devise.

Practical Plans.

General Walker after awakening the enthusiasm of the convention and au-dience, came down to the practical and told how each one could do their share told how each one could do their share in this grand work? He stated the various plans.

First, and best of all, hand over, at once, a handsome cash subscription to him or send the same to him at Charleston, S. C., or to Mr. James Mann, chairman U. S. C. V. committee, Norfolk, Va.

Second. Let those whose enthusiasm had been groused, when they go home.

Second. Let those whose enthusiasm had been aroused, when they go home, arrange entertainments, concerts, fairs, etc., to raise funds.

General Walker said he delivers a lecture, but with characteristic modesty failed to tell how fine it is, on the "memories of the sixties," which he will be pleased to give without charge, for this cause and to aid such efforts. He will be glad to hear at once or at Charleston, S. C., from any one wanting his aid ton, S. C., from any one wanting his aid in this or any other way.

in this or any other way.

Third. Individuals, if they do not care to pay cash, are asked to sign agreements, which the committee have prepared (in amounts of $100, $50, $25 and $10), promising to pay such amounts, three months after notice had been given, that the memorial was an assured success. These forms could be had of General Walker, or Chairman James Mann. Fourth. Camps of veterans and of sons will be asked to pledge certain amounts and then raise the amounts, not from their own pockets, but from their respective communities in such manner as they may devise.

Feature of Parade.

A notable feature of the parade was the presence of the survivars of the old Second Virginia Cavalry. Although weighed down by years, they had not forgotten the lessons in horsemanship during the four years of strife.

Governor Montague arrived here this morning, and took part in the parade, riding with Miss Temple, of Waynesboro, sponsor in chief of the Sons of Veterans. He was recognized and often cheered along the line.

"Yonder goes Fitz Lee; hurrah!" cried a pretty girl on the steps of the Carroli.

A yeteran attired in the uniform he wore forty years ago, with the same old canteen slung over his shoulder, attracted general attention, as did old Jefferson Shields, Stonewall Jackson's body servant, a grizzled old negro, who marched along spryly, despite the yeight of seventy-nine years, not to mention a bushel or so of medals and a huge cornstalk cane.

CONSIDERS OTHER MATTERS

Street Sprinkling, Free Bridge and Extension of Corporate Limits.

A called meeting of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, with President E. G. Leigh, Jr., in the chair. The meeting was quite largely attended and interest was manifested in all the subjects considered,

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines and washes internally and externally until I made up my mind that there was no relief for me. Calling at the home of a friend, I noticed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My friend endorsed it highly, and I decided to give it a trial to see if it would help me. It took patience and perseverence for I was in bad condition, and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nearly five months before I was cured, but what a change, from despair to happiness, from misery to the delightful exhilirating feeling health always brings. I would not change back for a thousand collars, and your Vegetable Compound is a grand medicine.

Mr. B. M. Gwathmey called the attention of the meeting to the dust from the streets, which gets into dwelling houses, mars the beauty of the city and is a menace to health. He expressed the opinion that it was desirable for the Chamber to recommend to the City Council that some systematic method for sprinkling the streets of the city generally be adopted.

ling the streets of the city generally be adopted.

Mr. E. T. D. Myers, Jr., coincided in the views of Mr. Gwathmey, spoke of the great increase in the expense of house-keeping and sugegsted that the city itself or by contract, should have the streets sprinkled all months of the year except December, January and February. Mr. E. H. Fergusson, Mr. W. A. Crenshaw and Mr. L. T. Christian also spoke earnestly upon the subject, and the concensus of opinion as expressed was to the effect that on all streets having as many as five dwellings and not occupied by the street rallways, the city should have them sprinkled for all the months of the year except December, January and February, even if a small personal tax had to be imposed for the purpose of meeting the expense of such a system, A motion that a committee from the Chamber be appointed to bring this matter to the attention of the City Council was carried and Messrs, B. M. Gwathmey, L. T. Christian and W. O. Skelton were appointed upon that committee.

He said that every one conceded the great need for extending the corporate limits of Richmond so as to secure proper sanitary, police, fire and other regulations, and he, therefore, moved that a committee from the chamber be appointed to urge the importance of prompt action looking to a proper extension of the city limits, but insisted that he must not be appointed upon said committee. Mr. W. A. Crenshaw heartly seconded the motion of Mr. Christian, which was adopted, and Mr. Christian insisting that he should be left off the committee, the following were appointed: W. A. Played at 4:30 P. M. To-morrow

At a meeting of the managers of the Twin City ball clubs last night arrangements were made by which the game between the Brownles and th elimperials will be played at 6:30 o clock to-morrow.

Instead of at 2:46, as at first scheduled.

Managers Dalley, of the Brownies; Bender of the Richmonds! Taylor, of the Barton Heights, and Clements, of Manchesler, together with President Knightly, of the league, were present.

They felt that the great interest centered in the game between the two leaders was an inducement to put that game last on the schedule, so that all enthusiasts might be able to be present. The game will begin promptly at 4:39 oclock. The carrier game between Richmond and Manchester will begin at 2:30 sharp, and all players are requested to be at the park before that hour.

There are but two more scheduled games after Saturday.

Last night betting was started on the game, a large sum in small parcels going out on a two to one shot on the Brownles. The friends of the Imperials lost no time in tailing up the offers on such odds. Fitzpatrick and Hulcher will be the opposing plichers in the great game.
